

This study examines the benefits of solar and wind energy on a community scale on the island of New Providence in The Bahamas. The electricity usage of 500 homes (a mix of luxury and ...

Renewable energy in The Bahamas holds promise as an alternative for electricity production, however, the country is heavily reliant on fossil fuels for electricity. This study examines the ...

