

The lithium battery charge and discharge capacity tester for finished battery pack is a smart and accurate device for battery pack production line. The aging cabinet is mainly used to test the ...

In this article you will learn how to measure the current the battery controller is charging the battery with. This test is done to help in determining issues with the battery staying charged, or ...

Battery cabinet measuring charging current

