

Can photovoltaic power be added behind solar panels

Can I add more solar panels if my roof is old?

Do not add more solar panels to your system if your roof is old, it is a leased system, or if you do not have enough roof space for extra panels. Contact your original solar installer to add more panels to your system. Why add solar panels to an existing solar system?

Can I add more solar panels to my home?

Most of the time, you can add more solar panels to your home. The economics will probably look a lot different than the first time you went solar. (And if you live in a state like California that upended its solar incentives, you're probably better off leaving your old setup alone.)

Why do we put solar panels together?

We put solar panels together to increase the solar-generated power. Connecting more than one solar panel in series, in parallel or in a mixed-mode is an effective and easy way not only to build a cost-effective solar panel system but also helps us add more solar panels in the future to meet our increasing daily needs for electricity.

How to connect your solar panels depends on:

Can I claim a tax credit if I add more solar panels?

Yes, there are some incentives you can claim when you add more solar panels to your roof, but they are limited. If you already claimed the federal tax credit when you initially installed your system, you can only claim it again on the added cost of the additional panels.

Can I install solar panels myself?

It is technically possible to install additional panels yourself, but we don't recommend it. Installing your own solar panel system is dangerous, as with any project involving electrical work. DIY installations also mean you must handle permitting yourself, which can be a lot of time and paperwork.
