

Taking cadmium telluride photovoltaic curtain walls, which are currently the most widely used in the construction industry, as an example, the light transmittance can be adjusted according to ...

