

Without a skilled conductor (read: energy storage systems), the violins (renewables) and trumpets (traditional power plants) would play out of sync. That's where grid-side energy storage tests ...

