

With a grid-connected system, a home can use the solar energy produced by its solar panels and electricity that comes from the utility grid. If the solar panels generate more electricity than a ...

